John Belknap, superintendent for the American Lumber company in the lumber, spent yesterday in city visiting his son, who is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital. He expects to take the young man home with him, but upon the advice of a doctor, the boy's movement back to the logging camp was postponed a week. Mr. Belknap returned to Thoreau last night.

Mrs. Thomas McMillin and daughter, Miss Alice, will leave one day next week for Ocala, Fla., where they will remain probably during the winter, and it is hoped that the lower altitude there will prove beneficial to Mrs. McMillin, who has suffered the past few weeks with nervousness. "A Wise Woman" was produced at the Elks' opera house last night, to the satisfaction of a large house. The audience applauded frequently, and seemed thoroughly well pleased. The only criticism that can be made on Mr. Samuel's performers, is that their clothes don't fit them. The bill tonight will be "The Man From Mexico." This production was well received on the last visit of the Samuel's company to the Elks' opera house some time ago.

According to their annual custom, the ladies of the Non-Sectarian Benevolent association ask the school children for their Thanksgiving donations. Prof. Clark has arranged to receive these donations on Wednesday morning, so that the ladies may distribute them on Wednesday afternoon. The association has for several years depended upon these donations to provide the poor of the city a Thanksgiving dinner, and this year have an unusual number of demands upon their charity. While we are enjoying our feast of good things, let us all remember those less fortunate than ourselves. Any cases referred to Mrs. H. B. Ray will receive attention.

Captain Clark M. Carr, whom the Optic reported as having passed through that city on his way home from Washington, has not returned, so reports Mrs. Carr to The Citizen, and in this connection, Mr. Carr was surely misquoted by the Optic stating that he (Carr) had positive information that the president would not indicate who would be appointed governor of New Mexico until after January 1.
